The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Elstrom.

In particular, deformable member (1) will flex and change the volume (albeit slightly) of the intake manifold plenum (10).

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 6 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Bredy.

In particular, Bredy, at Figure 2, teaches a piston which is subjected to a differential pressure between the atmosphere and the intake manifold and the piston moves to change the volume of a plenum which is part of a vehicle manifold assembly.

The piston itself appears to be a rigid member, but one of ordinary skill in the art would have realized that for small changes in volume a deformable member could have been used in order to simply flex under the differential pressure and change the manifold volume.

Claims 8-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In particular, claim 8 is identical to claim 7, claim 9 states that the "plenum" is moved along a linear path when clearly the plenum does not move, and claims 10 and 11 include "the resilient member" which lacks antecedent basis in the claims.

Claims 7 and 2-5 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
